

So no actual circuit breaker announced in Wales yet, but he thinks one will be announced unless we dramatically reduce the virus, but "if we do decide" that may be sufficient then to take us through Christmas.

In the UK though

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/local-covid-alert-level-very-high#visiting-other-venues-including-restaurants-pubs-and-places-of-worship>

Weddings, civil partnerships, religious services and funerals

You can attend places of worship for a service if you're in a very high alert level area. However, you must not mingle with anyone outside of your household or support bubble. You should follow the national guidance on the safe use of places of worship.

Wedding and civil partnership ceremonies must only take place in COVID-secure venues or in public outdoor spaces unless in exceptional circumstances. Weddings and civil partnership ceremonies are restricted to 15 people. Receptions must not take place in a very high alert level area. Funerals must only take place in COVID-secure venues or in public outdoor spaces with up to 30 people in attendance. Wakes or linked ceremonial events before or after the funeral are limited to 15 people and must not take place in private homes. Where food or drink is consumed, this should be in the form of a sit-down meal to ensure people can keep their distance from each other. Anyone working at a wedding, civil partnership ceremony, wake or funeral is not generally counted as part of the limit. Within these larger gatherings, people do not need to limit their interaction to groups of 6 or their own household, but social distancing should still be followed between people who do not live together or share a support bubble.

People living outside of a very high alert level area can travel to this area to attend an event, but they must not meet with another household in a private home or garden and we are asking them not to stay overnight.

So in theory even if we were in a High or Tier 3 or local lockdown area, in England then we can allow weddings and get people from Tier 3 to come.

However, it appears in Wales, Mark Drakeford, says people from High or Tier 3, cannot come to Wales, although, it appears its not a criminal offence.

So even if we have a circuit breaker or firebrick, then ours appears worse than what England have.

But Mark Drakeford has said that he cant make a decision, as the decisions are yet to come.

[16/10, 12:39] [https://www.walesonline.co.uk/news/wales-news/first-minister-mark-drakeford-details-19115186?fbclid=IwAR37uyrqfpZTdHt_ut4Pfy0\]kDqyZU8reFLy8Pkae5Omw207\]UDPM8Yi5-g](https://www.walesonline.co.uk/news/wales-news/first-minister-mark-drakeford-details-19115186?fbclid=IwAR37uyrqfpZTdHt_ut4Pfy0]kDqyZU8reFLy8Pkae5Omw207]UDPM8Yi5-g)

[16/10, 12:39]: Is this true?

[16/10, 12:39] Michael: But Mark Drakeford has said that he cant make a decision, as the decisions are yet to come.

[16/10, 12:40] Michael: No, he is thinking of that - but he hasn't made a decision 🤔

[16/10, 12:40] Michael: Although it has not been finally decided, Wales is set to see a "fire-break" type lockdown within days, which would once again likely confine people to their homes and close businesses.

[16/10, 12:41] Michael: If it does then it depends on what level he does - in England Tier 3 can still marry and travel, so we could still have weddings with Tier 2 people as Drakeford has said Tier 3 cant come but Tier 2 can!!! I think on Monday though he "might" make a different announcement

As for Weddings

We can only tell people that we "have not heard" weddings cannot go ahead, as soon as we know what can and what cannot go ahead(and for how long) then we will advise you. Our websites Coronavirus page, will be updated accordingly when anything that affects our weddings, then we will update